

The Kentucky Teacher Hall of Fame has three new members after an induction ceremony this week in Frankfort.

In this week's View from the Hill, Amy Bingham talks to the teachers about their combined 128 years of experience.

A home economics teacher from Auburn, an English teacher from Bowling Green High and an Ohio County educator who just retired last year after 67 years of teaching!

All amazing in their field and all beloved by so many.

{audio}<http://wcluradio.com/newscuts/0304amy.mp3>{/audio}

3 TEACHERS BECOME MEMBERS OF THE LOUIE B. NUNN TEACHER HALL OF FAME

Thursday, 07 March 2013 08:12
