

Today is the last day of the Annual county Clean-up week. The South Barren Volunteer Fire department and the Temple Hill Fairgrounds will be the drop off points in the county, while the city will be picking up on the Friday garbage route. Saturday there's going to be a free shredder day at the Houchens Southgate Plaza starting at 10 am

If you still have things laying around that you don't need but were too useful to throw away the Habitat for Humanity Re-store is the place to go. The Re-store is accepting donations of all kinds, literally! Melissa Smith, the Manager of the Re-store is bringing a reminder of how important it is to donate:

{audio}http://wcluradio.com/newscuts/0322smith1.mp3{/audio}

And what do they accept?

{audio}http://wcluradio.com/newscuts/0322smith2.mp3{/audio}

The habitat is running low on appliances and they have layaway available for up to one month. Call 629-5775. There address is 506 West Main.

