

Bowling Green's Hope Harbor recently hosted its first 10-Star Awards and Recognition Luncheon, honoring 10 law enforcement members from several counties for their devotion and exemplary service in working with sexual abuse victims and their families.

Glasgow Police Detective Brian Wise was the recipient of one of those awards.

Chief Guy Turcotte says "I'm proud of Detective Wise and his commitment and dedication to the victims in this very sensitive area of law enforcement. His efforts and compassion are above reproach."

Hope Harbor is a nonprofit sexual trauma recovery center and provides nonjudgmental and confidential support services to those affected by sexual assault or abuse and attempts to reduce the risk of victimization in the Barren River Area Development District which includes residents in Barren, Allen, Butler, Edmonson, Hart, Logan, Metcalfe, Monroe, Simpson, and Warren Counties in Kentucky. The main office is in Bowling Green with satellite offices for additional counseling services located in Franklin and Glasgow.
