Work began Tuesday on construction of a Frozen Food Locker plant just east of the Everett Froedge home on Burkesville Road. It is hoped that the plant will be ready for operation by November 15. It will be equipped with an initial capacity of 400 lockers of varying sizes which will be rented on an annual basis. It is expected that a slaughter pen will also be built near the plant. Similar plants have met with instantaneous success in other communities similar to Glasgow and have proven quite convenient to farmers, as well as town folks, in keeping a supply of meats and vegetables on hand throughout the year.

Perhaps the most prized trophy of the Cincinnati-Detroit world's series in the possession of a Glasgowian is a baseball on which R. L. Lessenberry, local hay- grain-coal-railroad magnate, procured the autographs of Paul Derringer and Joe Beggs, Reds stars. When he obtained the signatures, he little realized that he would thus possess the autograph of an outstanding star of the series. The ball has been on display in Leech & Davis' window since the Reds won the series. Joe Beggs, the other autographer, is considered the Reds' best relief pitcher.

Redford Signs Up A Potato-Peeler. Registration for the draft had its moments, both depressing and humorous, but it remained for Carroll Redford to pull the hot one in his precinct. It seems that an unfortunately afflicted young man presented himself for registration but insisted there was no need for him to register because he was "cross-eyed," and he truly was. But Carroll wouldn't give him any consolation. He told him that the Army could use him – he'd be just the right man for peeling potatoes because of his affliction. He could be peeling on one potato and looking for another at the same time, so he wouldn't lose as much time as the soldier not so equipped. Guess that's the lawyer that is beginning to show up in Carroll – busting alibis.

Terry Hatchett, 14-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hatchett, fell Sunday while playing football and broke both bones in his left wrist. This was hard luck for Terry, but by no means the first, as this is the third time he has suffered broken arms. Also, a few years ago while playing Indians with his friends, he got too near the fire and was burned when his clothing caught on fire, burning him so badly that it took six months for him to recover. It would look like he was being followed by a Jinx, if such things are possible. His friends sympathize with him in his latest trouble and wish him a speedy recovery.

Miss Patsy Ritter, 8-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ritter, received first prize, which was a radio, in a young people's riding class with ten other riders at Smiths Grove. It will be remembered that Patsy also won first at the Glasgow Fair.

The fox hound industry was given a severe setback this morning when 135 of the finest hounds in the country perished in a fire which destroyed the Bardstown stock yards where they were kenneled in connection with the annual field trials of the Kentucky Fox Hound Hunters Association which were in progress in that city this week. With the hounds, about 19 fine saddle horses also perished. No dogs from this section are known to have been entered in the trials: however, Dee Williams and Herman and Marvin Shipley had journeyed to Bardstown to watch the begin- ning of the trials, and were there to witness the destruction.

U.G. McFarland suffered an unusual and painful accident late last Thursday evening at his home just outside town as he was feeding his stock. In some manner, Mr. McFarland stepped, or fell, from the upper level of the loft and, in so doing, fell across a pitchfork handle with such impact that his stomach was ruptured, along with other internal injuries, which necessitated his removal to the hospital for surgery. Since his operation, he has undergone several blood transfusions and, at last reports, was understood to be getting along very nicely. At least, he is out of the danger zone.
